"Blaze of Glory," The Star's Thrilling New Serial, Starts in Saturday's Issue

THE Star's new serial story will begin in Saturday's issue.

It is "Blaze of Glory" one of those swiftly-moving, actionful and romantic stories that grip you from the first chapter to those last two words, "The End".

"Blaze of Glory" was written by Fred McIsaac. The story is centered in college and football life and McIsaac knows his subject. He is an alumnus of Harvard University and a one-time athlete and football player who learned the tradition of American college sport on the field of vivid experience.

McIsaac writes with a sureness of understanding and an accuracy of knowledge which no writer can bring to football who has not himself been through the rigors of the training table and "the squad" and has not known the all but unbearable triumph of victory before thousands, with the grandstands rocking with excitement and an unseen public comprising millions watching bulletin boards and ticker tape with an intensity verging on frenzy.

"Blaze of Glory" is not only a football story. It also is a love story. The hero of "Blaze of Glory" went to college because he met a lovely girl who made him realize his own imperfections and limitations.

"Blaze of Glory" will begin in Saturday's issue of The Star. There will be a big, generous installment and then it will appear every day thereafter until it is completed.

Begin "Blaze of Glory" Saturday.

$143,000 FUND IN CHRISTMAS SAVINGS HERE

Huge Sum Will Be Distributed to Depositors on Dec. 10

OHIO TOTAL $20,000,000

Deposits in Banks Increase $14,000 Over Last Year, Survey Shows

Approximately $124,000 will be distributed in December to depositors who have accounts in the Christmas Savings departments of Marion banks, figures obtained today disclose. This is an increase of $14,000 over the total distribution in 1925 and indicates not only growing popularity of the Christmas Savings plan, but progress of the thrift idea among local citizens, bankers say.

In addition to this outpouring of funds from the banks, which is regarded as a certain indication that holiday shopping here this year will be unusually heavy, $19,000 will be paid out by one of the local building and loan associations, which maintains a Christmas Savings department.

This brings the total fund up to $143,000.

All of the banks and the loan company plan to mail out checks to the thousands of depositors on Dec. 10, it was announced today.

Many of the banks in villages in Marion County have this saving feature and it is estimated that the checks sent out from these points will swell the county's total to approximately $160,000.

While many of the depositors transfer their balances to permanent savings accounts, a large majority use the funds for Christmas purchases, so that when the flood of money is released it is expected that local stores will experience one of the busiest holiday periods of recent years.

The total distribution of Christmas Savings funds in Ohio will amount to more than $20,000,000, according to figures obtained from a survey recently made by Charles H. Mylander, acting secretary of the Ohio Bankers' Association.

VILLAGE MAYOR'S HOME GANGSTER BOMB MARK

Incident Believed Another Chapter in Southern Illinois Feud History

Benton, Ill., Nov. 19—Gangsters speeding by in an auto, hurled a dynamite bomb at the home of Mayor Joe Adams, of West City, near here, today shattering every pane of glass and blowing off the doors of the home.

The blast was heard for several miles. The Boss of the mayor, his wife and brother, Gus Adams, who were sleeping in the rear of the home, probably were saved by the fact that the bomb fell about 10 feet short of the front porch.

The attempt on the life of the Adams brothers is the second to be made by gangsters, alleged to be members of the Birger faction, that has been made in recent days. Several days ago, two carloads of men rode through the town and fired a fusillade of machine gun bullets into the home of Gus Adams and a neighbor.

The homes of the Adams brothers are adjoining. Their friendship with the Shelton gang, lesser rivals of the Birgers in the southern Illinois feud, is said to have incensed the latter gang against the mayor and his brother. In the last attack it is believed that gangsters had intended part of the machine gun volley for the mayor's home but owing to the speed the cars maintained had missed it.

Orders started to tow the capture to Savannah.

R. L. Rohe, Tiffin, Mentioned for Post as Republican Floor Leader

When members of the eighty-seventh General Assembly of Ohio meet in Columbus on Dec. 22 to plan their organization for the session which will open Jan. 3, H. E. Hill, representative from Marion County, is expected to be one of the leading candidates for speaker of the House.

While Mr. Hill has not formally announced his candidacy, he stated today that he has received assurances of support from some of the most prominent members of the House and is seriously considering entering the race.

Messages urging the Marion County legislator to be a candidate have been received by him during the last few weeks from his colleagues in various parts of the state, some sending letters and others communicating with him by telephone. Only a few days ago, he states, members of the House from Toledo and Cleveland, who naturally wield considerable influence among their colleagues, notified the Marion man that they would support him should he see fit to seek election as speaker.

Other Candidates

Other members of the House who have already entered the contest and are now soliciting support, are John Brown of Champaign County, George H. Roberts of Mahoning County and E. H. Krueger of Cuyahoga County.

Mr. Hill has served two terms as Marion County's representative in the Assembly and was elected the fall to a third term. His close acquaintance with members of the house and the record of his service in helping frame important legislation during his two terms, would make him a formidable candidate should he decide to try for

FORD MAKES PERSONAL AERIAL BOOTLEG PROBE

Action Follows Seizure of Whisky-Laden Plane at Dearborn Airport

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 19—Henry Ford today was to personally direct an investigation into aerial bootlegging activities following the seizure of a whisky-laden plane at his Dearborn airport.

State police last night seized an air plane, loaded with 11 cases of whisky, at the airport's hangar. Henry Ford arrived at the airport about the time of the raid.

According to Inspector Ira H. Marmon, Ford said:

"My men in charge of the airport have been suspicious for some time that aerial bootlegging were abusing the courtesies and privileges we extend to all airplane pilots by coming here from points in Ohio and elsewhere in the interior, gassing up for the return trip and then staging their planes overnight before hopping over to Canada shortly after dawn the next day to get their loads. We're bound to stamp this out, the more so because suspicion seems to be attached to some of our own employees who possibly are cognizant of these activities."

Ford then left the airport after reporting the night's proceedings to as possible and to state police to acquaint heading the arrest of the liquor-laden machine.

MAID RECALLED TO TESTIFY IN MURDER TRIAL

Barbara Tough Fails To Remember Razor Introduced as Evidence

DEFENSE APPEARS HAPPY

Mrs. Hall Apparently in Better Spirits Than Any Day Since Trial Opened

BULLETIN

Jersey City, Nov. 19—Mrs. Jane Gibson, star state witness in the Hall-Mills murder trial, was "resting easily" at the City Hospital here today. Doctors said she had not suffered any ill-effects from her thirty mile ambulance ride to Somerville and return and the long examination to which she was subjected in the courtroom.

Courthouse, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 19—Barbara Tough, maid in the home of Rev. Edward W. Hall, murdered minister, four years ago, was recalled to the stand today in the Hall-Mills murder trial.

Prosecutor Alexander Simpson asked her if after the murder of Reverend Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills she had seen in the home the razor which he introduced in evidence a few days ago.

"I don't remember," said the maid.

The razor, it had been charged, was the property of Dr. Hall. Barbara Tough had been asked when she was on the stand before if Willie Stevens used a razor and she said he "shaved down town."

"It was part of your duties to keep the medicine cabinet in order, wasn't it?" Simpson asked.

"Yes," she replied.

"How long did you remain in the Hall home after the murder?"

"Until Feb. 25, of the following year."

"Did you see this razor in the house after the murder?"

"I don't remember whether I did or not."

"Where was it kept?"

"In the medicine chest."

"Did you go to the medicine chest at all after the murder?"

"Yes."

"Did you see it?"

"I can't say I did."

Defense Attorney Chrecor Case asked the maid one question on cross-examination.

Defense Appears Happy

"You don't remember whether you saw it or not?"

"That's right."

She then was excused.

The defendants seemed to be in a happy mood when they came into court this morning. They shook hands with their attorneys and talked animatedly. Mrs. Hall smiled as she talked to the lawyers. She was in better spirits than any day since the trial began. Spectators crowded the little courtroom to capacity, but the throng at the doors was considerably smaller than yesterday when Mrs. Gibson told her story from a bed.

Inspector John J. Underwood, right hand man of Simpson in the investigation was the next witness.

Underwood said he had been working with four detectives on the case since Aug. 8, last. He said he met Philip Payne, managing editor of the New York Mirror, at the home of Lord S. Boggans in Jersey City and there received from Payne the professional card of Dr. Hall, which the state contends bears the fingerprints of Willie Stevens.

Boggans is colored minister of Bethany in Jersey City and appointed Underwood as investigator in the Hall-Mills case.

Underwood said Payne gave him the card on the evening of Aug. 15.

Underwood said he gave the card to Fingerprint Expert Dewey, of Jersey City police department.

On cross-examination, Underwood

CLAIM LETTER IS FROM KENNETH G. ORMISTON

State's Evidence Against Aimee Semple McPherson Branded as "Bunk"

Open Clash With Mexico Is Feared In Protectorate

Action of State Department in Nicaraguan Situation May Cause Extremely Grave Complications, Belief; Marines Must Prevent Gun Running

KEEN RESENTMENT SEEN IN MEXICAN DISPATCHES

Storm Also Brewing in Congress as Democratic Senator Plans To Demand Recall of American Forces and Warships in Resolution

(Copyright, 1926, by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—Extremely grave complications may arise out of the State Department's establishment of a virtual American protectorate over Nicaragua.

An open clash with Mexico is one of them.

American marines are occupying Nicaraguan coastal ports and American warships are patrolling Nicaraguan waters under orders to prevent gun running and any more revolutionary fighting in the little republic.

There is an embargo on arms and ammunition from the United States and all other Central American countries save Mexico, whose politics bristle openly antagonize with the rebellious liberals of Nicaragua.

If Mexico chooses to stand stiffly upon its sovereign prerogatives and send arms into Nicaragua, and American armed forces carry out their orders to prevent the entrance of such shipments, something far more serious may ensue between the United States and Mexico than the diplomatic controversy now going on concerning land and petroleum laws. The situation is admitted to be extremely delicate.

Keen Resentment

Dispatches from Mexico City today told of keen resentment there over the summary action of the State Department in establishing American naval forces in Nicaragua on a more or less permanent basis, and more particularly over occupations of "bolshevism" and "communism" leveled against the Calles government by the State Department.

Ostensibly the American marines and warships are to be kept in Nicaraguan territory to "protect American lives and property," and to "discourage" further revolutionary activity by Nicaraguan liberals. Actually these forces are to maintain the presidential palace of Adolfo Diaz, who was elevated to that position last week under the auspices of the State Department's representatives at Managua, the capital. The course of the State Department in the present Nicaraguan situation bears a marked resemblance to the course of the State Department in a Pan-American situation some years ago, prior to the building of the Panama Canal.

Storm Brewing

It is perhaps a coincidence that Nicaragua is to be the field for the second Atlantic-Pacific canal. Army engineers have already surveyed the route. The American government, in the Wilson administration, bought the perpetual rights for a Nicaraguan canal for $3,000,000.

Meanwhile, there were unmistakable indications today that a storm is brewing in congress over the establishment of another American protectorate in Central America.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, announced today that as soon as the senate convenes he will introduce a resolution demanding the recall of American marines and warships from Nicaraguan waters, "so that the people of that country can settle their own differences without interference from the United States."

"The American people," said Senator Wheeler, "should not be fooled as to what is back of the propaganda being circulated by the State Department and by Mr. Kellogg with reference to Mr. Diaz and the Nicaraguan government."

Sees Violation

"If Mr. Kellogg carries out this purported plan to establish a protectorate over this unfortunate country, it would in my judgment be a violation of the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine. In spite of our persistent violations of the Monroe Doctrine by European powers, the State Department is putting

AMERICANS RENEW CLAIMS FOR DAMAGE

Washington, Nov. 19—American claimants of damages from Germany because of war losses to their property today renewed their drive before the house ways and means committee against proposals to return approximately $300,000,000 worth of German property held by the alien property custodian until every American claimant has been satisfied.

E. E. Buckleton, representing the Northwestern Rubber Co., of Akron, Ohio, and Liverpool, England, told the committee that every English citizen whose property was damaged by Germany has been paid. Under proposals before the committee, he said, his company would suffer a loss of $80,000 while German claimants against the United States would be paid.

OFFICIAL COMES TO DEFENSE OF NEW WARD PLAN

Says Opponents Welcome To Appear Before Council with Protests

Any citizen or group of citizens desiring to register protests against the ward redistricting plan adapted by City Council are welcome to appear before Council and state their views but at present there is no probability of the action already taken being rescinded.

This was indicated today in a statement by one of the members of Council when questioned regarding the probable outcome of objections that have been voiced in some quarters against the new six ward arrangement.

Boundaries for the new wards were agreed upon by Council after long and careful deliberation and there was not a dissenting voice when the question came up for final vote, this Council member states. The city legislators were unanimous in the opinion that the plan adopted is the best that could be devised to suit all purposes.

Basis of Protest

The main basis of protests that have been heard thus far is the irregularity of the boundary lines established in dividing the present Third and Fourth wards into four wards. This feature is defended by councilmen, who say that it would be practically an impossibility to fix boundaries along straighter lines. Should a plan of that sort be attempted, it is maintained, the result would be much more confusing to citizens than the one adopted.

The boundaries were fixed, it is stated, by following the present precinct lines as nearly as possible, this keeping the number of precinct changes at the lowest possible minimum.

Cite Other Cities

Investigation will show, councilmen state, that ward boundaries in most of the larger cities are generally irregular, often being in the form of circles and rectangles and frequently with one ward established virtually in the center of another.

Investigation has shown that in the first four ward the voting population will range from 2,210 to 3,116, while in the Fifth it will total only 1,140 and in the Sixth 1,195. Councilmen explain that this arrangement is based upon practical certainty of most of the city's population increase in the future being in the Fifth and Sixth wards.

"In establishing the new ward boundaries we followed main streets as nearly as possible and we are convinced that this is the most practicable plan," the councilman interviewed today stated. "However, our sessions are open to the public and we will gladly grant a hearing to any citizens who wish to file objections."

If your little one is tired, cross, half sick, isn't resting well and acting naturally—look, Mother! See if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has sore throat, diarrhea, tummy ache, or if full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" and in a few hours all the constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative" because it never fails to clean the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the entire stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

ment sending ammunition to help the liberal forces of Nicaragua which are opposing the reactionary forces now being financed by Wall-st.

"The war hysteria has passed. No sane man will take seriously the propaganda that because the liberals of Nicaragua seek to control their own government they are bolsheviks."

Military Autocracy, Claim

"This talk of keeping our troops and warships in Nicaragua indefinitely with hints even that they may be used to prevent a liberal rebellion, is nothing short of military autocracy. So far as the public is informed the State Department did not attempt to suppress the revolution of Chamorro by American troops. On the contrary, my information is that American marines gave indirect aid to the reactionary forces.

"The appeal of the puppet Diaz for American intervention with the declaration that 'whatever means may be chosen by the State Department will meet my absolute approval,' indicates that Mr. Diaz wants Mr. Kellogg to set up an American protectorate.

"The holding of a sovereign nation in subjugation by American troops, except when a state of war has been declared, sets up a military autocracy in the western hemisphere that violates the very principles upon which this government was founded."

MEXICAN OFFICIALS CONSIDERABLY AROUSED

Mexico City, Nov. 19—Although the Mexican government remains silent, it is generally known that officials are considerably aroused over the inferred charges of Secretary of State Kellogg that Mexico has been supporting the Nicaraguan revolution.

President Calles at the national palace remained silent and Foreign Minister Saenz announced that he would stand pat upon the blanket denial issued by Mexico at the time the deposed Nicaraguan President Chamorro appealed to the League of Nations, charging Mexico with aiding the revolutionists.

The denial to which the foreign minister referred declared that Mexico was not interested in Nicaraguan affairs or in her revolutions.

While there was official silence there was no unofficial silence.

Blames Jealousy

Former President Obregon spoke out frankly and declared that he believed that jealousy on the part of New York and New Orleans "sponsored lamenters of revolutionary movements" was largely responsible for the "American sudden attack of morality".

"New York and New Orleans elements who have always specialized on fomenting revolutions in Mexico for gain, because some Mexicans must have their vice," General Obregon said.

Questioned directly whether Mexico was fomenting revolution in Nicaragua, General Obregon said:

"I know nothing of that. I can say that when we have had revolutions in Mexico we have had no difficulty in getting from the enemy or purchase [illegible] the United States."

No Formal Protest

At the [illegible] of Mexico no formal protest has been received from the United States and it is said the State Department chooses to follow its informal method instead of the official course. It is believed likely to take such form of statement which will not [illegible] already [illegible]. TO BUILD NEW COTTON MILLS TO AID TEXAS

Abolishing Gambling in Exchanges Also Offered To Solve PrPoblem

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 19.—Solution of the cotton problem in Texas by the erection of cotton mills and abolition of the gambling now possible by "exchanges" is believed possible by S. R. Morg n, an attorney of Somerville.

Declaring that underconsumption, rather than overproduction is the cause of the present critical condition in the cotton-raising states, Mr. Morgan suggests that the $4,000,000 proposed to be raised by bankers and others could be used to greater and more far reaching benefit by building cotton mills.

To Aid Employment

These mills, Mr. Morgan said, could give employment to thousands of people now engaged in the raising of cotton on rented lands.

"Texas needs 50 mills where it now has one," Morgan said. "The $4,000,000 proposed to be loaned by bankers and others to handle this year's Texas crop, would be better invested in building cotton mills in Texas—mills that would give employment to thousands of worthy working people who are now engaged in growing cotton on rented lands. Some of the cotton mills would manufacture cotton bagging to bale cotton which would naturally consume some of the surplus over production."

Mr. Morgan severely criticized the actions of some landlords who require a tenant to plant more than one-third of the land in cotton.

Plenty of Fuel

"With Texas oil fields now producing 500,000 barrels of oil per day," Mr. Morgan continued, "and with the enormous natural gas fields now developed, Texas has the world 'skinned' on fuel. All of these things should induce and promote more cotton mills in Texas."

Pointing to Gaines and Andrews counties, with 1,000,000 each "awaiting the hand of the husbandman," to Yoakum, with 500,000 acres and other Texas counties, Morgan declared that there are plenty of opportunities for prosperity there, the land being fertile and easily cultivated. This country, he said, will produce a greater variety and yield of field, orchard and garden produce than any other territory.

"VINCO" IS BEST FOR THE BOWELS

Millions of Boxes Sold Without Advertising. Druggists Amazed at Quick Success

True merit is the only explanation of the fact that "VINCO" Herb Tablets have so quickly become a big national seller without advertising.

If constipated, bilious, or you suffer from sour, gassy stomach, feel irritable, have no energy and hate to get up in the morning, by all means try simple, sensible "VINCO". Get a 25c box of your druggist. Take a tablet tonight. Feel fine tomorrow! Do a double day's work! Keep feeling and looking young!

Not a drop of dope in "VINCO" Herb Tablets. Made of herbs, roots and barks a pleasant chocolate coated tablet. No griping—no nausea. Acts gently but thoroughly always the same always effective. "VINCO" relieves where ordinary laxatives fail.

Ask your druggist about "VINCO". He knows. Lay aside nasty pills, dangerous calomel and harsh physics. Use only "VINCO" to regulate the bowels. Do a kindness by telling others about "VINCO". They, too, will appreciate the difference between harsh physic and gentle, harmless "VINCO" Herb Tablets.—Adv.

Always ready to treat small injuries

"BEST EVER" FOR MUSCLE-LAMENESS

Scout leader makes short work of strains, sprains, bruises

A Boy Scout leader at Utica, New York, has found a simple and always effective way of taking care of the lame muscles, the bruises, strains and sprains that "the scouts" are always bringing him for treatment.

"I just put on a little Sloan's Liniment, as the bottle says, without rubbing," he writes. "It takes out stiffness and pain as nothing else will. We have it always on hand and we think it is the best ever."

Sloan's gives real help because it doesn't just deaden the pain: it gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing tide of fresh, new blood—building up the injured tissues, clearing out the fatigue poisons.

Almost at once you feel relief. Stiffness, swelling, inflammation go down. The pain stops. Get a bottle today and have it on hand for the first emergency. All druggists—35 cents.

The Boston Transcript expresses the opinion that possibly the reformers, noting the prohibition situation, will think twice before starting a crusade against tobacco, which goes to show that erudite Boston doesn't yet know the reformers.

There is this difference: the farmer wants relief through high prices for his products while the consumer wants relief from the high prices of the products of the farmer's products.

Despite all her faults, let us be fair to New York City. It's hardly right to judge her morals by the plays she puts on for the delectation of a somewhat-extended hinterland.

Councilman Peter Witt, of Cleveland—known to us only by reputation, we are glad to say—vehemently denounced the reception which was planned for the Queen of Roumania in the Forest City, which once again goes to show the folly of carelessness in the selection of councilmen.

As we understand it, the landscape gardening along De Russey lane which has made that thoroughfare so popular is said to have been the work of old Mother Nature. Come to think of it, old Mother Nature seems to have figured pretty largely throughout the case.

After giving the matter mature consideration, Mr. Coolidge has decided that maybe it will be possible for us to muddle along without the assistance to be had from participation in the World court, which rather goes to show that the presidential ear has been in juxtaposition to the ground somewhat recently.

Berlin Supports Ambassador.

It is pleasing to note that the Berlin ministry of foreign affairs has approved the action of the German ambassador to this country. Ago von Maltzan, in raising the German flag over the embassy in Washington on Armistice day, which provoked the most bitter comment among the Nationalists in his home land.

As given out in Berlin, the position of the German government is that Ambassador Maltzan is in the best position to appreciate what his line of conduct in such matters should be to meet the demands of the political situation and international courtesy, and it frankly demonstrates its intention to back up the ambassador, no matter what the feelings of the Nationalists in the matter may be.

This, as a general rule, is the course which should be followed. This is the course which makes ambassadors what they should be, no matter whether they be German, English, French or those of any other foreign power or our own. They are on the ground, and they should know best the proper course to be followed.

The Nationalists may rattle the saber occasionally over in Germany, but the German republic continues on the even tenor of its way under the wise guidance of President von Hindenburg, who, though stern fighter that he was, realizes that the armistice signed eight years ago meant as much to Germany as to any other power and, possibly, far more, and that Germany has as much right to celebrate the day, and as much cause, as any nation engaged in the Great war.

"An Infinite Deal of Nonsense."

A New York judge says that pistols, bullets and ammunition are the three most important contributors to crime. We are not disposed to argue with him in his contention. The three agencies mentioned are beyond all doubt contributors to the crime of today and important ones, but that they are the most important three is open to question. But we will pass this.

It is with this judge's suggested remedy that we take issue. He suggests that a tax of $100 be placed on each revolver or pistol and a tax of one dollar upon each cartridge.

New York state already has a law—we believe it is called the Sullivan law—which carries a penalty of imprisonment or both imprisonment and fine for being in possession of a one-hand gun, unless a license is secured to possess and carry such a weapon. By one-hand gun is meant a gun which may be carried and operated in one hand, such as a revolver or automatic pistol. The decent, law-abiding people of New York, as a result of the law, very largely live and go unarmed, while the all-around bad men—the murderers, bandits, robbers, thugs, thieves and the smaller fry of the criminal world—are armed to the teeth. They neither respect or obey the law; they defy it. The result has been that there has been a steady increase in all forms of violence in which firearms figure ever since the passage of the law. Crimes are occurring almost daily in New York City, right in the heart of the city, which were not even dreamed of a decade ago.

The result of the enactment of a law along the line suggested by this New York jurist would simply give added safety to the criminal element and lessen the safety of the citizenship generally. The law would operate just as the Sullivan law has operated. The criminal element would scorn it, and the only result would be to place a heavy tax burden on that element of the citizenship, which, for its protection, took out a license to possess a one-hand gun. It would simply work entirely to disarm the people of New York who wish to comply with the law and at the same time protect themselves and their property.

We can not help but feel, such are present-day conditions, that it would work for the accomplishment of far more good were all restrictions upon the possession of firearms removed. The criminal element is already armed. It not only has its supply of pistols, revolvers, rifles and sawed-off shotguns, but machine guns and armored cars as well—an armament far surpassing that of the police authorities, without mention of any that the general citizenship may possess, so indifferent be that of the latter. Removing all restrictions upon possession of firearms and permitting all reputable citizens to carry firearms under license would come nearer placing the law-abiding and criminal elements upon an equality so far as preparedness is concerned. The criminals of today are not going to be put out of business by gentle taps on the wrist, not so long as we have courts subject to political pressure, if not to corruption, intimidated witnesses, terrorized jurymen and a lot of people mushy in their sickly sentimentality.

There's "an infinite deal of nonsense" uttered from the bench these days and not enough pronouncements of justice.

When all is said, it's hardly probable that an adequate sewage disposal plant would cost Chicago as much as her water steal is costing her in loss of trade due to unfriendliness thus created.

The former kaiser is said to want to return to The Fatherland, but judging by the expressions which come to us occasionally under a Berlin dateline, Germany is bearing up nobly under his absence.

What we have never been able to understand is why authorities confronted by murder mysteries do not call in some of these magazine detectives who unravel mysteries as a sort of a before-breakfast exercise.

Judging by the predictions already made, there are going to be so many demands for special relief measures at the coming session of congress that handling them will just about have to be recognized by congress as the regular order of business.

Poems That Live.

WYNKEN, BLYNKEN AND NOD.

Wynken, Blynken, and Nod one night
Sailed off in a golden shoe
Sailed on a river of crystal light,
Into a sea of dew.
"Where are you going, and what do you wish?"
The old moon asked the three.
"We have come to fish for the herring fish
That live in this beautiful sea;
Nets of silver and gold have we!"
Said Wynken,
Blynken,
And Nod.

The old moon laughed and sang a song,
As they rocked in the wooden shoe,
And the wind that sped them all night long
Ruffled the waves of dew.
The little stars were the herring fish
That lived in the beautiful sea.
"Now cast your nets wherever you wish,
Never afeared are we!"
So cried the stars to the fishermen three,
Wynken,
Blynken,
And Nod.

All night long their nets they threw
To the stars in the twinkling foam.
Then down from the skies came the wooden shoe,
Bringing the fishermen home.
'Twas all so pretty a sail it seemed
As if it could not be,
And some folks thought 'twas a dream they'd dreamed
Of sailing that beautiful sea;
But I shall name you the fishermen three:
Wynken,
Blynken,
And Nod.

Wynken and Blynken are two little eyes,
And Nod is a little head,
And the wooden shoe that sailed the skies
Is a wee one's trundle bed.
So shut your eyes while mother sings
Of wonderful sights that be,
And you shall see the beautiful things
As you rock in the misty sea
Where the old shoe rocked the fishermen three:
Wynken,
Blynken,
And Nod.

Operations Almost in Luxury Class.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is neglect of little things to which we owe much of our trouble and many of our ills. A stitch in time saves nine," has been taught us from childhood, but too often we fail to apply this rule.

In the nature of things, each of us must meet with an accident or submit to an operation. Fortunately most operations and most accidents are minor affairs. The average person escapes anything more serious.

But suppose you do meet with an accident or have an operation, what will be your attitude of mind and how gracefully will you accept the necessary treatment?

Of course, nobody can answer this question for you and in all probability you can't answer it for yourself. It would be foolish, too, to brood over the prospect of trouble.

It isn't to worry you that I speak of these things. But I have seen such helplessness in face of really trifling emergencies that I want you to be prepared. When you go into a theater in a great city, you see notices saying in effect: "Look about you and locate the nearest fire-escape. In case of fire go to it at once."

In the cities, too, are fire and police alarms. In event of fire you are to break the glass and turn the handle. They are placed there for your protection.

I want to implant in your memory a few thoughts about possible emergencies. You may never need them. If you do, you will be glad to have them.

In case an operation is placed before you as necessary to your welfare, accept it in the best of spirits. You may do this because it is only rarely that evil results from an operation. Ninety-five times out of a hundred you will be disabled, but a few days and will be back on your feet in a surprisingly short time.

Perhaps you dread the pain. You need not—there will be no pain. Modern surgery has robbed operations of this horror. Anesthetics, general or local, are safely given by experts and make the surgery painless.

Until a few weeks ago I hadn't had a tooth pulled for forty years. I have never forgotten that old-time dentist, dead these many years, and the way he held me down while he pried out a molar. I can see now his word he put his knee in my chest to keep me in the chair. It's a wonder he didn't pull my head off, and I shall never forget the crunching of the bone as he crowded the forceps into my tender jaw.

The other day in marked contrast to my early experience, the dentist injected a few drops of novocain, waited a few minutes and extracted the tooth without one single bit of pain. It is almost unbelievable that anything of that sort could be so comfortable.

Ether and chloroform are given without the old-time fuss and trouble. I am ashamed to think I worried over taking a general anesthetic. It isn't bad at all, because they know how to give it these days.

The healing of a wound is speedily accomplished, thanks to the cleanliness and the lack of unnecessary handling of the parts. By doing exactly as your doctor says you will have no delay in the recovery.

The Way of the World.

The capacity of the [illegible] hardship, suffering and [illegible] remarkable one admittedly. It is a matter of record [illegible] in England [illegible] a letter who lost three toes [illegible] walked 147 miles to a land [illegible] carried a lone-case which [illegible] perches any hundreds of others [illegible] jeer upon when thrown [illegible] in England—plenty of [illegible] know little about its [illegible]. Always in the history of [illegible] women who seem to have the capacity to suffer the most and endure the most are mothers.

You may escape some of the big things that lie in wait for you. You can't escape all the little ones. F. D. Barker, Northwestern university scientist, tells us of little "beasts" so small that they have to be magnified 700 times to make them visible to the microscope eye. They are getting into the United States, coming from Asia. Immigration from tropical countries is responsible.

Three distinct "families" have been revealed by the microscope. One is the usual creeping amoeba; another pulls or propels itself through the human intestines by a tail, and a third is equipped with a series of fins by which it navigates. But all three work to the same end—and that is the affliction of the human anatomy with such common everyday ills as emaciation, weakness, melancholia or a general breakdown of the nerve structure.

They are one cell parasites. Dr. Barker explains, and are received into the human system with food and water.

Dr. Canfield, president of Carroll college, Wisconsin, arrests our attention by dividing the American history into four parts. He calls the period from 1776 to 1832 the test of the nation's sovereignty. The period from 1832 to 1873 was the test of the constitution; from 1873 to 1914 was the commercial and social welfare period. The years from 1914 to the present make the international period.

He might have gone on to say that this latest period in which we live, has the greatest bearing on civilization and the progress of the world. In the long run how we relate ourselves to other nations is just as important as what we do by ourselves.

We have need in this country for internationally minded men.

One of the newly-elected members of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, Herwan Atkins MacNeil, sculptor, has taken many medals for his work in decorative art. He is known chiefly for his "Sun Vow" and "Primitive Chant," both Indian subjects, and is the designer of the latest American twenty-five cent piece.

Born in Chelsea, Massachusetts, in 1866, Mr. MacNeil received his early education at the Massachusetts State Normal school, later going to Paris, where he was a pupil of Chapu at the Julien academy. He also passed two years under Falguiere at the Ecole des Beaux Arts.

Returning to the United States Mr. MacNeil instructed at Cornell university and the Art institute at Chicago. In addition to the many awards received for meritorious work Mr. MacNeil has done important decorative sculpturing at the Paris, Buffalo, St. Louis and Panama expositions. MRS. M. L. WILSON and Mrs. Clyde Fahs entertained at a bridge tea of delightful appointments yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wilson, Harding Highway east. The rooms were attractively decorated with bowls of yellow chrysanthemums and the same idea prevailed in the decorations for the tea table. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. William Moore, South Haven, Mich., and Mrs. Frank Cramer, of Richwood. High honors at cards were won by Mrs. R. B. Gallagher and Mrs. R. C. Walker.

"OVERTONES" was the title of a clever one-act play written by Alice Gerstenberg, which was presented under the direction of Miss Lucile Foreman at an attractive "guest day" party given by members of the Literary Quest Club at the home of Miss Foreman, E. Church st, last night. Miss Helen Atchinson played the part of Hatriet, a cultured woman, while Miss Sophia Mack enacted the role of "Hetty," the cultured woman's primitive self. Margaret, also a cultured woman, was played by Mrs. Harland Kerr with Miss Audrey Bolander in the role of Maggie, Margaret's primitive self. The scene took place in Harriet's living room.

Especially delightful were the piano numbers played by Mrs. Thomas Duncan, and the vocal selections sung by Mrs. H. E. Holloway of Canton, an out-of-the-city guest of the club. Mrs. Duncan played the "Minuet" by Seeboeck, "Chimes of St. Patrick," by Whithorne, "To the Spring," by Poldini, and "Waltz Valse" by Brahms. The charming numbers sung by Mrs. Holloway were "Bird of Love Divine," by Wood, "Blackbird and Thrustle" by Borsdorf, "Optimism" by Bassett, "Woodland Voice" by Godfrey, and Scott's "False Prophet" in conclusion. LARGE ATTENDANCE AT TRINITY BAPTIST

Delegations From Green Camp, Fite Memorial And Emanuel Churches Present

Delegations from the Green Camp Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. Frank Smith; from the Fite Memorial Baptist Church with the pastor, Rev. A. G. Adriance; and from Emanuel Baptist Church headed by the pastor, Rev. Earl L. Holliday, were in attendance at the denomination negat service held last night at Trinity Baptist Church in connection with goodfellowship week which is being observed there.

Rev. H. B. Hazen, pastor of First Baptist Church at Bucyrus, was the principal speaker of the evening, giving an interesting address on the subject, "Our Baptist Program," in which he outlined the history of the church, telling first of its background and origin, second of its especially fine spirit of hospitality and unity, and third of the goal of the church, which he said was to "carry on the work already so successfully begun."

Short addresses were given by each of the three visiting pastors, after which Paul Bishop and Howard Taylor sang a duet, "The Lord Is My Light," with organ accompaniment played by Miss Grace Durfee.

Dr. C. M. Eddy of Granville, secretary of Denison University, will speak along the line of education at the young people's fellowship service at the church tonight. The program will consist of several numbers played by the Sunday School orchestra, mass singing and the serving of refreshments.

EIGHT CONVERTED AT NAZARENE CHURCH

Evangelistic Services at Local Church Attracting Large Congregation

Eight were converted at the Nazarene Church at the close of the evangelistic service last night, in charge of Rev. W. R. Cain of Wichita, Kans., who spoke on the subject, "Inbred Sin."

His text was taken from Romans 7:17, "Sin that dwelleth in me." "Sin is two-fold in its nature," Rev. Cain said, "what we do, and what we are. The word 'sin' in the text denotes something within us which we have inherited. Prayer does not destroy it, and since sin is of a dual nature, God has chosen a double remedy."

"The hymnology teaches two works of grace," he continued, "for example, in the hymn, 'Rock of Ages,' the one line, 'He of sin the double cures.' The first time God mentions sin in the Bible is in the form of a noun not a verb, in Gen. 4:7, 'the net of sin.'"

"Dr. Albert Barnes, great Presbyterian commentator, said before his death, that inbred sin is alluded to in every chapter of the Bible. Christ came to this earth to destroy it and to make us naturalized citizens of the household of God," he concluded.

His solo was "Traveling Down the Rough Path of Sin," which he sang while playing his own accompaniment on the guitar. Services will be held tonight and Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Living LEGACY Loving

LOVE! Money! On these two hang all of the laws of existence. Opposites of each other, yet they have this one thing in common. Each is paramount with its own adherents, at once the cause and the result of human endeavor. Either or both is the prime force or goal.

So it happens, and inevitably but of late, that the two are rivals bidding for the possession of man's consideration.

He who says that love is more to be desired is liable to find the "open road" to material gain shading his knowledge.

While he who declares wealth the greatest of the two and concentrates upon piling up the dockets pays the penalty for his choice when in his hour of need he discovers the love he slighted has vanished.

A certain widow in our town labored from dawn until dark sparing her self no strain, allowing herself no pleasure. And a kindly neighbor, noticing the gloom of her shoebloes the dark shadows beneath her eyes remonstrated:—

"Why do you work so hard, Martha?" she said. "You have a comfortable home all paid for. Your boy and your girl are old enough to support themselves should the need arise. It seems to me you had better be content with what you have. Relax and enjoy life a little. You can't take your riches into the next world with you, you know!"

"Oh, but you don't understand!" replied the widow. "I am not laying up treasure for myself, but for my children. John left us enough to get along on, but I never want my children to have to work. I want to lay up enough to leave them well off!"

Nor would she be convinced against her will that there could be another side to the story. By and by work and worry took their grim toll. A boy and girl were left a little fortune that, well invested might have fulfilled their mother's wishes, but, foolishly squandered, for they had not been taught money's worth, actually brought them more harm than good. And that boy and girl, having little to soften the memory of a hurried, harassed mother, short of temper, impatient of interruption, apparently indifferent to their youthful interests and desires, scorned her for their own shortcomings, blamed her for their evil fortunes, reckoned not at all that mother's self-sacrifice.

A legacy of riches! What did it amount to?

Nothing! Exposed to the shifting winds of chance the riches took wings and flew away.

HOW different another legacy of which we read!

No gold and silver and precious jewels but affection, was bequeathed in a will drawn and filed according to the law.

The letter that companioned this unusual document read:—

"Dear children, I've just made my will, and this is to tell you what I want done with my little personal belongings. Don't keep anything just because it was mine; they are just things, and worn and shabby at that; love doesn't need such things for remembrance.

"... Think of me as alive ... and near, and loving you. ...

"Love one another. Hold fast to that, whether you make-part one another or not, and remember nothing matters except being kind to one another and to all the world as far as you can reach."

Legacy of love.

A legacy that time cannot wither nor rust corrode nor the fateful breezes waft away.

Precious beyond measure such inheritance.

"Remember nothing matters except being kind to all the world as far as you can reach."

"This brings to mind a little phrase we've long remembered: ...

"Next to the verb 'to love', 'to help' is the most beautiful verb in the world."

Love or money? If choose you must, which seems to you the more worth while?

Mrs. Harder gave some interesting sketches of the bi-ennial convention held last summer at Atlantic City. "The most interesting thing at the convention was the women themselves, their ability to carry on so successfully such a big undertaking as the convention," she said. "Some of the best speeches made were given by the women themselves." Mrs. Harder stressed the fact that the federation has no state song and no slogan, both of which she said added enthusiasms at any meeting whether it be state, national or international.

Mr. Fletcher chose the unique subject, "And," for his talk in which he presented the work of the women in repetition, variation, modification and consequence. "You are not working for the present but are building for the future," he said. "The teachers of to-

"Then I'm not the only fool in the family, am I?"

Silence.

"Why didn't you cut him out?"

"She's been engaged to him for a long time, I guess. Anyway, she came over to marry him. What could I do about it, even—even if I'd wanted to?" said Piggy, in a tone speaking volumes to his brother's observant ear.

Another long pause. Then Brazenose asked gently, "Had your share, boy?"

"No."

"Neither have we. We waited for you, and it's getting late. Change your clothes and we'll go down to the girls."

"I'd rather not, dad. Can't we have dinner alone—just you and me?"

"Fraid not, this time. Roberta wants to see you."

Piggy shut his teeth hard, squared his shoulders, and turned toward his father again.

"All right. I'll change now. Mind if I take time for a bath?"

One glance showed Brazenose that in those days at Fitzwilliam his son had added cubits to his stature. There was a new, stern firmness about the mouth and chin, a new, deep clarity in the ... He put out a hand ... the other's arm.

"Come in, Peter—please," she begged, with an unwonted and adorable shyness. "I asked him not to come for a little while. I—I want to see you alone just a minute."

Piggy went in, much as he would have walked over hot plowshares if she had requested it in that tone. She softly closed the door.

"I just want to thank you, now that it's all over." Standing before him, hands clasped and eyes glowing in a small, fluttering voice that tore at his heartstrings. "You've been wonderful."

"I didn't do anything," he said abashed and unhappy.

"You did everything. If it hadn't been for you, Celia'd be at Birchwood yet. It was all you—your ideas, your money, your imagination and courage and—and loyalty."

"I merely got us into a hole." His tone was not as gruff as he had hoped to make it. "You got us out. I don't know how."

"Oh, didn't he tell you? It was your dad! He's perfectly wonderful, Peter. He's like you in foreseeing everything and preparing for it. He knows father, too, and how to handle him. He took me to a lawyer afterward, just to make sure, but he planned every bit of it himself. He told me exactly what to say and do, and what to expect. I went to Birchwood, you know, and bullied father into dropping the whole thing." At that tense moment the absurdity of a whippet bullying the mighty G. A., true though the statement was, occurred to neither of them. "And when I'd done it, I telephoned from Winchenden to Mr. Brazenose—he was waiting in Boston—and he sent the telegram we'd ... of up in the morning. So you see it was ... all right, you and he together."

Well, you've got dad back for ... ... were even. He returned, tart... ... because his voice was unmanage... able. "That was bully of you."

"But I owed you that," she cried. "I couldn't be such an awful thing hap... ... to you on my ac—not after all you'd done for me—for us I mean." Floundering in unpremeditated personalities, she made hasty amendment. "Of course, I know it wasn't for us—I mean not be... ... you—I understand perfectly that you don't like girls. You just pitched in and helped us because it was a man thing to do, and—because you are like that."

"Oh, that was—it was just cricket. It looked like a good sporting proposition—at first," he explained awkwardly, wishing with all his soul that dad would come and put an end to this for... ...ever.

Quicksands of Love

"Fire Complex" Wins

THERE seemed to me something odd, almost furtive, in Mary's panic at my suggestion that the door leading from her room to the little dead end corridor ought to be nailed up instead of bolted. That I might be imagining this, I knew, but the impression was strong enough to watch her face narrowly as I waited for her answer to my laconic query, "Why not?"

"Because," she said, after a few minutes' hesitation, "I'm afraid to have a door nailed up so I couldn't get out. Suppose there was a fire! I have a horror of fire."

"There's very little danger in this building of a fire gaining so much headway that you could not get out by the regular stairway," I said. "But even if the stairway were on fire, that door ... ...ornet comes in... ...stantly.

A dose taken every two hours ... ...il three doses are taken will end ... ...grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.—Adv.

MILLIONS USE IT TO STOP A COLD

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends severe colds or grippe in few hours

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with a two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

What Makes Home Happy?

FOUR walls can make a house, but it takes a woman to make a home.

The woman who prepares nourishing and attractive meals, does her housework without grumbling, raises a family of healthy boys and girls and still finds time to be a pal to her husband and a friend to her neighbors, is accomplishing the biggest job in the world. Homes like hers—little havens of peace and love—are the bulwark of the nation.

To be a successful homemaker a woman must guard her health. When the mother is not well the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as Mrs. Riessinger did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

MRS. RIESSINGER was in poor health after the birth of her first baby. She weighed only 98 pounds. One day a neighbor told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she decided to try it. "After taking four bottles," she writes, "I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework without one bit of trouble." Her address is Mrs. M. RIESSINGER, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of danger. Real medicine, reaching deep with its soothing healing power, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes of your throat and bronchial tubes.

If you are catching cold; if you have a "head cold"; if your chest is tight; if you have a cough—even if bronchitis has developed—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! Keep your cold from going down into the danger zone.

[illegible] ... Lucian's family, mother and sisters, all of whom furnish color and background for the novel and Kay Strand a young neighboring woman who, he has known since childhood, and Mona Torsun, figure of the story. Mona is a landowner near Lucian, a man with whom he had formed a friendship while, on his return to Hattie hall, for some strange reason refused to take so intense as the first. She had been true. Mona Parson was the brother of Ben Torsun, the treasurer of Hattie, who met his death by accident on his wedding trip, and in this relationship Lucian finds an explanation for Mona conduct.

Lacking friends, the type of family and home atmosphere he had always craved, Lucian turns with increasing interest to Karen whom he had affectionately nicknamed "Spindle". With her growth into womanhood he knows to love Karen finding in her those elements which he had so vainly sought in Hattie and a response to his own gentle Bucolistic nature. Late to Lucian seems futile, hopeless without Karen but as had his father before him, he loyally remains with Hattie and sacrifices his own happiness for the sake of duty.

Hattie vaguely perceives this love of Lucian's and finally, after bitterly struggling against it, attempts but fails to end her own life and, as a result, becomes a bed-ridden invalid for life. In this crisis, Karen, who wholeheartedly returns Lucian's love, insists upon living with them and tending Hattie, very much against Lucian's wishes.

It is then that the mystery of Lucian's lost friend, Mons, and of Hattie's secret, is revealed by Bert, Hattie's unbalanced brother. Mons, he tells Lucian, is a prisoner in the asylum from which Bert escaped. He tells how Mons, in a fit of jealousy, had killed Ben Torsun, and Hattie, knowing the truth, had kept silent to shield Mons. Lucian, realizing that Mons is insane, decides to keep the secret.

Lucian's decision to keep the secret of Mons' crime from Hattie, and his subsequent marriage to Karen, form the climax of the story.

Real Estate Activity Here Regarded as Forerunner of Prosperity for Marion

President of Local Board Says More Business Is Being Done Among Realtors at This Time Than During Several Years Back

More transfers of real estate have been made during the last three months than in the same period for the last three or four years.

The reported speeding up of the realty business in Marion is something more than talk among real estate men. This is proved by a check of the number of properties being transferred as sold. The sales of real estate, both homes and lots has been steady in volume all during the fall months, and where there is a usual decline in real estate activity when the summer draws to a close, the slowing up failed to appear this year, and business kept up a steady pace.

Among realtors the prospect for continued healthy business is looked on as particularly bright, according to E. H. Cowan, president of the Marion Real Estate Board. He says:

"Realtors do not describe business as booming what is known as brisk, but we do know that more business is being done among realtors than at the same time for several years back."

Renewed Activity

This renewed activity in real estate business is looked on by Cowan as evidence of larger activity to come. With business at the pace it is now making, he feels that there can be nothing but a larger volume to be handled when the season opens up in the spring, and building starts.

Real estate activity is generally a step in advance of other signs of prosperity. Activity among real estatemen marks a general trend along all lines of business and Cowan feels that the gains of the real estate business means growth and prosperity among all Marion industries and stores. This in turn creates need for homes and adds another impetus to the business of the realtors.

With real estate business holding a steady pace there has been no advance in prices of property in the city. This is a good indication it is pointed out, that business is being made on a solid basis of value of property, and that there is no "boom" or artificial inflation in the upward movement of the real estate business.

NOW 101! SHE MADE GINGERSNAPS FOR THREE PRESIDENTS

We present here a photo taken of Mrs. Nancy Baker, Galena, Ill., as she awaited the celebration of her 101st birthday. She tells of the pleasure she had in making gingersnaps for three men who later became presidents of the United States—Ulysses S. Grant, neighbor and fellow-townsman; William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. She was also a friend of Abraham Lincoln.

CHEAPER COTTON WILL MAKE FOR TRADE BOOM

Manchester, Eng. Nov. 19—Dyers of cotton yarn and piece goods are making a general revision of prices, and in certain qualities many concessions are being granted to customers.

As a consequence, a trade boom may be anticipated.

The lists are complicated, and the reductions irregular, but the movement is welcomed.

Similar action is to be taken shortly by bleachers and calico printers. The expectation of cheaper coal, after the strike, is the general reason for this movement.

Cotton goods, owing to the big drop in the price of raw material, are cheaper than they have been for years, and the reduction in finishing charges means that Manchester merchants will be in a position to place goods in the markets of the world at more reasonable rates than for a long time.

Dealers reckon that the lower level of prices will result in much larger contracts being arranged.

Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz, Mezzo Soprano, Will Be Guest Soloist

The program for the concert to be given by the Canto Club in the Star Auditorium next Monday night has been announced. Eight numbers, arranged in groups of four, spaced by a short intermission make up the program. Mrs. J. Bishop, baritones and members of the club, will each give a solo, accompanied by the Canto Club.

Reports of ticket sales so far for the concert indicate a strong demand for the tickets. The club has been divided into teams, representing Ohio State and Michigan for the ticket sale. The report yesterday showed Ohio State ahead, with 23 points scored to 21 for Michigan. Each team is credited with a touchdown or six points for each $100 in ticket sales. Each team was near another touchdown, from the report yesterday.

Tickets may be purchased at the Thibaut & Mantz Hardware Store and at the Metropolitan Store at Church and Main sts.

Two ancient Folk songs open the second group on the program, "A Prayer of Thanksgiving" and "The Hunter" (Humoresque) by the Canto Club. Song group, "Schlafleidchen," "Slumber Song," and "Nina" (Canzonetta) by Mrs. Strelitz. Song group "At Dawning" and "Smilin' Through" by Mrs. Strelitz. A MESSAGE OF TRUTH

THE MARION RED CROSS

Is Admittedly Essential to Marion

BUT—Marion Has So Far Refused To Support It

FOR the past two years the Marion County Chapter, Red Cross has been carrying on its soldier and civilian relief, its free nursing service among the destitute ill, its health instruction among the school children on a roll call revenue that was absolutely inadequate

GIFTS from the Women's Federated Clubs, a surplus fund accruing from the war period and careful handling of every penny available enabled the local chapter to "carry on."

THIS year the war fund is gone, gifts have reached that point where they can not be increased, the drive in the business section was a failure——

NOW it is up to the individual citizens of Marion to say whether this great work is to be continued or dropped when the present funds are exhausted.

SUNDAY, November 21, the house-to-house canvas will be made. The Marion County Chapter needs $7,000 in addition to that subscribed by the factories and it is up to citizenry of Marion to either give or see the Red Cross disappear from its midst.

THERE WILL BE NO COMMUNITY CHEST IN MARION UNTIL 1928, according to the announcement made Tuesday by the Chamber of Commerce. Therefore, the Marion Red Cross must depend upon the response to its Tenth Annual Roll Call for its existence during the year of 1927. There will be no second drain on the pocketbooks of the Marion citizens for charity.

THERE IS NO ORGANIZATION THAT CAN TAKE THE PLACE of Marion County Chapter, Red Cross. Its field is particularly its own. It serves all—and does not draw the line at race, creed, color or politics.

THE heads of the Red Cross Chapter of Marion are level-headed, prominent business men and women who serve the community without pay or reward. They want YOU to help!

ARE YOU, as a citizen of Marion, as a member of the Marion County Chapter, Red Cross, going to sit idly by and see the institution, which goes into the families where help is needed and cheerfully aids in a way that is not offensive, fold up its tent and depart for lack of funds?

YOU, are a part of this great organization, it is up to you to see that it does not fail. It never has failed you, your town or your country in time of need—Are YOU going to fail it now?

WHEN THE SOLICITOR OF YOUR MEMBERSHIP COMES TO YOUR DOORSTEP ARE YOU GOING TO SAY "WE SHALL NOT FAIL" AND JOIN — OR ARE YOU GOING TO SHRINK YOUR PART? YOUR RESPONSIBILITY TO THE SOLDIER AND DESTITUTE CIVILIAN OF MARION?

OUR LAST PLEA

STATE STREET SCHOOL PUPILS START COUNCIL

Meetings Are Held Weekly Under Supervision of Teacher Councilor

An innovation began during the school year of 1925-26 and carried on into the present year, is the Student Council of State Street School. This organization is composed of representatives from grades five, six, seven and eight, acting for terms of six weeks, after which new councilors are chosen by the pupils of the respective grades. The meetings are held weekly under the supervision of a teacher councilor, at which plans are made for the general welfare of the students, building, and grounds.

Both seventh and eighth grades of State Street School have organized Literary clubs for the purpose of broadening the knowledge in that field. Interest in [illegible] grades are [illegible] on Friday afternoons.

An interesting feature in the eighth grade is the keeping of State Street School readers of each pupil's reading. A list of the books read during a certain period each year. Around 45 books, in addition to all selections, such as short [illegible] and others are included in the list. Upon finishing a book each student is required to submit to the teacher a report on the book completed for which credit is given on a chart. The greatest benefit hoped for in this course is to develop in the students' minds an appreciation of good literature and the formation of worthwhile reading habits.

Increases Depositors

Since the opening of the school the State Street has raised its banking percentage from approximately 40 to 60 per cent. It is interesting to note that grades one, two and six have been successful in earning 100 per cent. The high peak of 93 per cent was reached by the sixth grade last week.

The community club of North State Street has already entered upon a set of hoped for accomplishments. The first meeting was held in October, and a 10-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia has been purchased for the use of the students. Plans are nearing completion for the procuring of more supplies along the line of athletic equipment.

Safety First

To a certain teacher belongs the credit of inventing a safe place for keeping bank funds. During an intermission when the room was to be vacated she conceived the novel idea of placing the money bag in a place where it would be unmolested. However, this novel idea did not prove quite as enticing as anticipated. For a chance observer beheld the janitor, tools in hand, rushing to the aid of the discomfited teacher. After much labor the door was removed, and there upon the cupboard shelf reposed not only the students' savings but the keys to the padlock, which firmly secured the door.

No Cold In 5 Yrs.

The writer has not had a cold in five years. He catches colds from contacts, just as others do. But at the first sneeze he takes HILL'S, I have proved that colds do not develop when one does that.

But there are other things that millions know. HILL'S checks a cold in 24 hours after it has developed. It ends the fever, opens the bowels, tones the entire system. It leaves one feeling better than when the cold began.

HILL'S combines four of the greatest helps modern science has discovered. It was perfected by one of the world's largest laboratories. It is so efficient, no well-proved that the present owners paid $1,000,000 for it.

Nobody who knows what HILL'S can do will ever use a lesser help. Nor will they delay.

INCREASE OF 210 PUPILS 15 YEARS MARK RECORD

Four Teachers Instructing Classes When School Was Opened

An increase of 210 students in 15 years is the record of Mark Street School. In 1911, during the first year of school, 120 students were enrolled. These students were taught by four teachers, who were Misses Christina, Lawrence, Ulsh and Freeland. Misses Christian and Lawrence are still there.

The enrollment of the school at present is 330 and there are nine teachers: first grade, Misses Gertrude Lawrence and LaDema Chamberlain; second grade, Miss Pearl Dutt; third grade Miss Mary Curl; fourth grade, Misses Blanche DeLong and Gladys Edelman; principal and fifth grade, Miss Harriette Christian; sixth grade, Mabel Bolman; seventh grade, Miss Estelle Myers.

A school library has been formed, 75 volumes being donated by interested persons.

The students of Mark Street rank 75 per cent in thrift, accounts showing that pupils and teachers banked $400 in 11 weeks.

A Parent-Teachers Association has been in existence for some time with an enrollment of 75. Mrs. John Irvin is the president.

An orchestra has been formed under the leadership of Mr. Temple, the personnel as follows: violins, Gloyd Dearth, Stanley Thomas and Muriel Zieg; piano, Francis Irvin and Frances Donough; saxophone, Ruth Ella Caldwell; flute, Frances Snyder.

Miss Christian has announced that on Nov. 23 a cafeteria supper will be served at the school, the proceeds to be used to purchase a trap drum outfit for the orchestra.

OAK STREET TO HAVE ORCHESTRA IN NEAR FUTURE

Teachers Proud of Building and Pupils, According to Principal

"We teachers are very proud of Oak Street School and especially the fact that we have so many modernly equipped rooms," said Miss Alice Sneckenberger, principal of Oak Street School. "We have Mr. Temple's orchestra to help us form and then direct an orchestra. Louise Parish, Dorothy Cramm, Ada Ruth Clagett, students of the seventh grade, furnish music for which students march to and from their rooms."

Oak Street School rooms are beautifully decorated and the fine appearance helps the young students to appreciate the lovely side, both of nature and their every day surroundings and experience.

The community club under President Mrs. E. V. Hodson, has accomplished much for Oak Street School. The city is responsible for the fine shrubbery about the building, and also the various beds and books.

The flags of the building are numerous—the ones in the class rooms being furnished by teachers, the half flag by the G. A. R., while the flag at the front of the building was presented by the board of education.

The students buy pencils and candy to care for the ever present needs of sport play for boys and girls.

The students, 300 in number, are busy little persons, with their studies and art works which, by the way, are judged, scored and then sent in to Miss Keeler, head of school arts. The first grade students in their spare moments make gaily-colored rings which they proudly carry home to mother.

Teachers now employed at Oak Street School are: Miss Alice Sneckenberger, principal and seventh grade; Mrs. E. R. Bondley, sixth; Miss Mark, fourth; Miss Findley, first; Miss Gallimore, third; Miss Westlake, sixth and seventh; Miss Leny, second, and Miss Strauser, fifth.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT MAYTAG MEETING STARTS ON PAGE 1

which is already of extensive proportions.

Principal Speakers

The principal speakers at tonight's meeting, in addition to Mr. Maytag, will be City Solicitor Grant E. Mouser, Jr., of Marion, G. W. Rhodes, branch manager of the Maytag Co. at Indianapolis; V. R. Martin, of Columbus, divisional manager in Western Ohio; R. A. Caldwell of Milwaukee, representative of the Cramer-Krasselt Advertising Agency; O. C. Cameron of Cleveland, vice president of the Ohio Contract Purchase Co.; E. L. Marriage, divisional manager in Eastern Ohio, and A. E. McElhany, divisional manager for Indiana and Kentucky.

The Maytag Night Hawks Orchestra of Columbus will provide music for the program, including the dance which will close the day's entertainment.

Special amusement features have been arranged with Ernie Smith of Toledo, "radio" character and entertainer and several other stars of the Keith vaudeville circuit as the outstanding performers.

Founder Here

E. L. Maytag, founder of the Maytag Co., who is taking a prominent part in today's program, was recently the recipient of no-odd honors at Des Moines, Ia., when he was formally presented with a medal of honor in recognition of his industrial achievements. The presentation was made by Governor Channell of Iowa on behalf of the Home Appliance Merchants of America.

Oct. 12 is a red letter day in the history of the Maytag Co., as the result of the company having made on that date the largest single shipment of merchandise that the world has ever known. Five solid trainloads of Maytag aluminum washers were sent from the Maytag factory at Newton, Ia., to Chicago, where the gigantic consignment was divided into five trains and routed over five different railroads to insure speedy transit.

One of these trains passed through Marion en route to distributing centers in three states. The entire shipment filled 130 cars and consisted of more than 11,000 washing machines.

The mammoth shipment of five trainloads punctuated one of the greatest merchandising achievements on record. It is typical of a series of similar but smaller trainload consignments during the summer and fall months. The Maytag Co. having originated this extensive system of distribution.

1,250 Machines Daily

The present output of the Maytag Co. is 1,250 washing machines daily and plans are under way to increase this figure soon to 1,500. To accomplish this, the factory at Newton is being enlarged with the construction of additional buildings, including what will be one of the largest aluminum foundries in the world.

There are now 2,000 men employed at the Newton factory.

The Maytag Co. was founded more than 30 years ago by F. L. Maytag, and its success is indicated by the following figures showing the remarkable increase in the volume of sales, which in 1920 totals $14,000,000; in 1922, $4,000,000; in 1924, $17,000,000; in 1925, $25,000,000. The sales estimate for 1926 is placed at $35,000,000.

GROWTH IS REMARKABLE AT OAKLAND HEIGHTS

Recall Days When People Believed School Board Foolish For Erecting Building

Back in 1910, someone conceived the idea of erecting a school in the center of a thickly wooded district bordering the old Umpqua homestead, in the southwest part of the city. A number of building lots had been laid out, streets marked off, and the city car line extended to the Green Campus. However, the public conception of this lonely subdivision was a thick wood with a few clearings in which stood a ball park, the Steam Shovel saw mill, and the Umpqua farm. It seemed a poor location for a subdivision and it was believed that all hopes for its growth would be completely obliterated within a short period of time.

Nevertheless, in 1911 a cornerstone was laid and the old McKinley Building was started. It was finished late in the fall of 1912. Public opinion at once censured the school board for placing a school out in the woods and expecting it to be supported by them when there were only about three or four families living within a mile of the building.

However, school started and the enrollment began to increase. New families moved in, homes were built, stores were opened, and it was like the "Gold Rush of '49." Things began to grow so very rapidly that all Marion looked to it as a modern miracle. Within a few years it grew to be a small city with its own stores of every description, a bank, and finally a theater.

The school continued to grow and occupied a beautiful corner at the intersection of Woodrow and Umpqua ave. Eight teachers were employed and an attendance of about 200 caused Marion to wonder at this school in the wood.

In 1918, after naming this new subdivision "Oakland Heights" it was suggested that the name of the school be changed to "Oakland Heights School."

In 1920 Miss Grace Baldwin was appointed principal of the building and immediately urged her opinion that the school should be enlarged to make it more convenient for the pupils. In the same year an addition was erected which contained four portables rooms and a gymnasium. Upon finishing the addition it was possible to keep all the pupils and give them the modern conveniences of school life.

Owing to the increase in enrollment, many grades were split, two sections of each grade being made. This necessitated the employment of new teachers and at the present time, the faculty consists of 15 members.

Although the size of the building was increased the pupils cause in such numbers that in 1922, the eighth grade was moved to Central Junior High School and since that time there have been only seven grades at Oakland Heights School. However, there are two sections to each grade and the total enrollment at present is 283.

The school has grown to be one of the largest and best of all elementary grade schools in Marion, in the course of 14 years, and Oakland Heights joins in the praise of her own "School in the Woods."

NOW TEACHERS WILL BE CAREFUL

Buggies are becoming quite a rage in the twentieth century. In the last week at the Olney Avenue School, Robert Kenyon was acting "babyfied," his teacher told him. She spoke to him of it. So he thought he would go to school in style. On returning home at noon he borrowed a baby buggy from a neighbor. After dinner Robert rode in the buggy and was pushed by Richard Dorfe and Joe Rathell back to the school.

HOCKING VALLEY HOLDS TEST RUN THROUGH HERE

To Determine Amount of Water Needed Before Adopting Standard Tank

Hocking Valley Railroad Co. held a test run between Columbus and Walhonding, through Marion, to determine the amount of water needed on the run and the size tank that should be furnished each locomotive in the future.

Each locomotive was equipped with a 6,000 gallon tank. Practically all made the 120 miles without a few gallons while a few nearly exhausted a mark and fewer have enough for only 5,000 gallons of water.

On a 6,000 gallon tank, locomotives are required to stop four or five times between Columbus and Walhonding to take on water. The stops delay traffic to some extent and cut down shipments of coal to the lakes.

The proposed 10,000 gallon tank attached to each engine, Hocking Valley officials say, will make only one stop necessary between Columbus and Walhonding.

Many Rate Calls

A large number of calls concerning fares and rates to various cities located many miles from the Hocking Valley Railroad were received yesterday by the local ticket agent following an announcement that special rates would prevail on the Hocking Valley over Thanksgiving Day.

Many persons have evidently gained the impression that all railroads operating through Marion are offering special rates over the holiday but it must be remembered that the special fares are offered only to and from cities on the Hocking Valley.

Was a Good Judge of Liquor

A young man I had a liking for and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time, but constipation gave me stomach trouble which became chronic. My stomach would have been a valuable addition to the navy. Doctors did not seem to help me. One day my druggist got me Mayr's and I am now as good as new. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal matter from the intestinal tract and relieves the inflammation which causes most all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Mayr's will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Adv.

15 FRENCHMEN IN CREW ON WAY TO NORTH POLE

France's Expedition Leaves Soon for Spitzbergen; Special Sledges Built

Le Havre, France, Nov. 19—France's expedition to the North Pole will leave here soon for Spitzbergen to prepare for the exploration of polar regions.

Fifteen persons, five scientists, two air pilots, six mechanics, one wireless operator and one film operator make up the party. They are equipped with six special 50-horse power motor sledges of special construction never before utilized for polar exploration and two tiny airplanes for reconnoitering purposes.

Two French infantry officers, Lieutenant Georges Dareis and Lieutenant Blanchard are in command of the expedition which has the moral if not the financial support of the French government.

The expedition is of both a scientific and a sporting nature. Scientists with the party expect to bring back detailed reports on all characteristics of the Arctic wastes. The sporting end of the venture will be an attempt to follow on land, snow and ice, the path which Amundsen, Ellsworth, and Nobile made by air.

Special Sledges

The sledges have been constructed so that they can be adjusted to travel on land, snow or ice. They will not be assembled until the expedition reaches Spitzbergen. The airplanes are of wood and can be assembled and dismounted in twenty minutes. When not in use for reconnoitering purposes they will be carried by the motor sledges.

One sledge carries a wireless sending set with a radius of 1,000 miles. Leaders of the expedition hope to keep in constant communication with the civilized world throughout the trip.

Food and provision for a year are being carried but it is hoped that the trip from Spitzbergen to Point Barrow, Alaska, can be made in three months.

Members of the expedition and the equipment will sail from here to Spitzbergen in the Norwegian ice breaker "Motia." After three or four months at Spitzbergen, spent in making tests and experimenting with sledges, the expedition will set out in the direction of the Pole.

WEATHER HANDICAPS CORN HARVESTING

Crop Up To Expectations But Conditions Cause Losses

The corn crop in Marion County was up to expectations but the weather conditions prevented proper harvesting of the crop, causing a severe loss in tonnage according to the general report of Marion County farmers.

Despite the rainy harvest, sufficient corn is now salvageable to make the crop compared all weather records since 1913 but what the wet weather didn't prohibit the cutting and harvesting of the crop.

Corn which is standing much of the time was damaged by rains and many fields were so soft that the farmers could not get their machinery in the fields. Many were practically ruined when forced to the ground by swaying under the weight.

Harvesting of corn was being carried on six weeks later than usual this year because of the rainy weather which kept the crop growing. The rains however made the corn what it was while it ripened the wheat crop. No estimate concerning the failure of corn crops in the last several months farmers, the harvesting proved the cause as a result of the failure to harvest the full grown crop.

The corn heavy did fall in no instances in most sections of this county, farmers report, but a comparison against the European post is expected to be conducted next year.

Patsy's Patter

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

"A HERO today—tomorrow a bum." A few lines under a Philadelphia dateline tell of the second baseball release by the Athletics of Bill Wambsganss. This means that a man who was recognized a few years ago as one of the best second baremen in the game will spend a year or two in the minors and then drop out of the game for good, soon to be forgotten by the fans who a short time ago were acclaiming him as one of the heroes of the national pastime.

It was with Cleveland that "Wamby" made his reputation. He came to the Indians from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in 1914. From then until 1917 he played second, third and short, at different times. In 1917 he became a fixture at the central station, and played good ball.

In 1920, Wamby entered baseball's hall of fame when, in the Sunday game of the world's series between the Indians and Brooklyn, he made a triple play unassisted. He is the only player with such a stunt to his credit in a world series game.

In the winter of 1923, Wamby went to his old boss, Lee Fohl, at Boston. At the close of the 1925 season, he was traded to the Athletics, and last year he performed as utility infielder for Mack.

THE Cleveland Plain Dealer must have had the same reporter at the wrestling match in Public Hall the other night who covers society weddings. Listen to this: "Mr. Garkawienko, resplendent in Yale blue tights, received a thunderous ovation as he stepped under the lights for his featured disturbance with Mr. Hatches. Mr. Hatches was wearing vivid crimson trunks, adding a Harvard tinge to the affair."

We wish the P. D. would send that bird to cover the Syracuse-Columbia game Saturday. We would like to read his comment on the flesh-colored silk half hose which Syracuse threatens to wear during the game.

IS Tex Rickard slipping? We read that Gene Tunney is threatening to leave the man who made a business of the fight game and go over to the camp of Humbert Fugazy. Fugazy already has Jack Sharkey, conqueror of Harry Wills, and Jack Delaney, the boss of the light heavyweight division, under contract to do their fighting under his auspices. Gene is said to favor a match between these two huskies to determine which is the better opponent for himself. If they fight, Rickard will have to bid high to get the battle between the winner and Tunney.

"STUFFY" McInnis, who takes up the thankless job at Philadelphia which was dropped by Art Fletcher, is making claims. No, not of the pennant. John is modest—or is he? He promises that the Phillies will not finish eighth in the National race next year.

There is no doubt of "Stuffy's" baseball knowledge, but can he show Owner Baker the wisdom of spending a dollar now and then for a real ball player, and the folly of selling that player when he becomes of some use to a big league club? With all due respect to McInnis, we think he is no better a manager than several who have preceded him at the helm of the National League entry in the city of brotherly love.

BILLIARDS might not be such a bad game to teach your son. Ralph Greenleaf, who this week successfully defended his title as world's champion, gets for his success the following: A diamond-studded medal worth $1,000; a salary of $250 a week from a billiard firm; a contract for 42 weeks in vaudeville at $1,000 a week and 50 per cent of the gate receipts for the match games in which he defended his title. Not so bad.

County Schools Abandon Cage Tournament

Winners in Two Sectional Meetings to Clash at Close of Season for 1926-27 Title

Deciding Contest of Year Will Be Played in Star Auditorium; New Rule Will Govern Matches of Both Boys and Girls; 11 Schools Entered

THERE will be no Marion County high school basketball tournament this season. This announcement was made today by Supt. C. B. Rayburn, following a meeting of the athletic committee of the county schools.

The county has been divided into two sections and the champion team of each section will meet on the Star Auditorium floor for the deciding championship contest. The new rule governs boys' and girls' teams alike.

The two county divisions will be known as the Eastern and Western sections. Schools in the eastern section are Martel, Caledonia, Kirkpatrick, Claridon and Waldo while the western section is composed of LaRue, Marion-Agosta, Green Camp and Prospect.

Section Leagues

Each section will form a league and each team in the league will play six sectional games. The leader of the league in one section at the end of the season will meet the leader in the other division for the county championship.

All league games will be arranged within the next few days by the athletic committee and each team will be allowed to participate in six other independent contests during the season.

The state athletic rules will be followed as usual in determining the eligibility of players and all games will be played on Friday nights, according to state athletic rules.

The winning team in each section will be awarded a cup as will the county champion. Cups will be given the boys' teams as well as the girl's quintets.

Delaware Tournament

The county schedule must be completed before Feb. 25, the date of the Delaware tournament. The county champions and runners-up will be eligible to participate in that tournament as usual.

The new plan has been inaugurated to do away with the long drives of county teams during stormy weather and is certain to prove satisfactory. The plan also marks the beginning of a more conservative athletic progress in the county schools.

During the last few years, the two biggest days for the county schools have been the days of the county cage tournament. Last year, when the tourney was held in the Star Auditorium, the largest crowd to ever fill the hall was present.

The elimination of the tourney is the greatest change recorded in county athletics for many years and will probably be met with approval in each section.

The county athletic committee this year is composed of Thurl Stephens of Claridon; M. J. Ellis, of Agosta, and H. W. Rodock of Martel. The committee will announce the league scheduled within the next few days.

BACON TO REFEREE 15 OHIO CONFERENCE TILTS

Francis Bacon, personnel director of the Marion Steam Shovel and manager of the Steam Shovel independent basketball team, has been selected by H. A. Passini of the Ohio Conference to referee 15 basketball games during the coming season.

SHOVELS TO HOLD FIRST PRACTICE SESSION MONDAY

Floor in New Gym Installed; Workmen Placing Baskets

The Marion Steam Shovel cage team will hold its first practice session Monday night on the new Shovel gym floor, Manager Francis W. Bacon announced today.

The gym floor has been installed and baskets are being hung today, in preparation for the first practice.

The Steam Shovel outfit will open its initial season here, Tuesday night, Dec. 14, when it ties up with the Kenyon College quintet on the Shovel gym floor.

Among those who are expected to report for practice Monday night are "Baldy" Compton, Denny Bohyer, Bub Wilson, Cofman, Scoop Irwin, Pough, Worden, Cliff Ward and H. Grossglauer.

Compton is former Wittenberg guard and coach of Harding High cagers. Bohyer was formerly forward on the Ohio Wesleyan quintet and all Ohio choice for three years. Wilson is from Denison University. Pough hails from Toledo. Manager Bacon was formerly guard of Wabash College. Other men are last year's stars.

The schedule for the coming season has not yet been completed but it is known that some of the best teams in the country will oppose the Steam Shovels on the local floor. The first out-of-town game is scheduled with Muskingum College, Dec. 17.

Negotiations are being made by Manager Bacon to book games for the Shovel team to be played at home and abroad with Buffalo All-Americans, Cleveland Rosenblums, Keyser Collegians, New York Celtics, Lancaster, Rochester Centrals, and others.

Championship Conference Races Will Be Brought to Close Saturday

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—It won't be long now, as the gent said who had just had his head cut off.

By nightfall tomorrow, the Big Ten Conference race will be over and either Michigan or Northwestern, or both, will have fallen heir to the title.

Two hours later, Stanford's right to the coast championship probably will have been established.

[illegible] of the Ohio State-Illinois game. Next Saturday Harvard will supply the answer to the Yale-Harvard game which is one of the three the Navy may encounter the greatest difficulty. The middies probably will be favored to set matters with their [illegible] Saturday. That seems to [illegible] a sister task left on the old campus. I can't see it winning from Charlie Brickley, Boston College's Big Cross, of the undefeated and untied eleven, also drew "breathers" with Georgetown and Lehigh, Pathfinders, respectively.

The South, however, will remain [illegible] Alabama having won the conference title and incidentally Thanksgiving Day decision over Georgia to become all southern champion.

As for the Missouri Valley Conference race, it will be something of a shoot-out this week-end, but most teams will be down when the slow [illegible] to be over. It looks to me as though Missouri will win from its arch-rival, Kansas, in spite of the fact that the latter [illegible] Oklahoma, which beat Missouri by all accounts. Kansas State looks to be the best of the lot.

Nebraska, it would appear, will [illegible] Notre Dame, which could [illegible] Iowa, which could [illegible] the last league title to [illegible] Minnesota, Purdue and Wisconsin. A victory over Northwestern [illegible] Minnesota to win [illegible] Purdue.

Finally, Michigan is due to win [illegible] Chicago.

It would be possible for Oregon State to create a triangular tie by winning from Idaho's powerful Missourians and Nebraska, but I seem to lack confidence in the possibility. Lawson, Lee Richards can't quarterback against Illinois [illegible] and if they Chicago will [illegible] closer by winning from Wisconsin, but I am extremely pleased to [illegible] it.

Stanford can win the coast title by beating California, which is [illegible] should results do, regardless of its apparent lack of immunity to attack. If Stanford wins, it won't matter what U. S. C. does to Idaho or Oregon Aggies do to Oregon which in both cases might be plenty.

In case anybody cares, I like Yale over Harvard in about the same way I like an abscessed tooth [illegible] before date is known. Notre Dame and Drake? Please don't be serious.

Patsy's Patter

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

"A HERO today—tomorrow a bum." A few lines under a Philadelphia dateline tell of the unconditional release by the Athletics of Bill Wambsganss. This means that a man who was recognized a few years ago as one of the best second basemen in the game will spend a year or two in the minors and then drop out of the game for good, soon to be forgotten by the fans who a short time ago were acclaiming him as one of the heroes of the national pastime.

It was with Cleveland that "Wamby" made his reputation. He came to the Indians from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in 1914. From then until 1917 he played second, third and short, at different times. In 1917 he became a fixture at the central station, and played good ball.

In 1920, Wamby entered baseball's hall of fame when, in the Sunday game of the world's series between the Indians and Brooklyn, he made a triple play unassisted. He is the only player with such a stunt to his credit in a world series game.

In the winter of 1923, Wamby went to his old boss, Lee Fohl, at Boston. At the close of the 1925 season, he was traded to the Athletics, and last year he performed as utility infielder for Mack.

THE Cleveland Plain Dealer must have had the same reporter at the wrestling match in Public Hall the other night who covers society weddings. Listen to this: "Mr. Garkawienko, resplendent in Yale blue tights, received a thunderous ovation as he stepped under the lights for his featured disturbance with Mr. Hatches. Mr. Hatches was wearing vivid crimson trunks, adding a Harvard tinge to the affair."

We wish the P. D. would send that bird to cover the Syracuse-Columbia game Saturday. We would like to read his comment on the flesh-colored silk half hose which Syracuse threatens to wear during the game.

IS Tex Rickard slipping? We read that Gene Tunney is threatening to leave the man who made a business of the fight game and go over to the camp of Humbert Fuguzy. Fuguzy already has Jack Sharkey, conqueror of Harry Wills, and Jack Delaney, the boss of the light heavyweight division, under contract to do their fighting under his auspices. Gene is said to favor a match between these two huskies to determine which is the better opponent for himself. If they fight, Rickard will have to bid high to get the battle between the winner and Tunney.

"STUFFY" McInnis, who takes up the thankless job at Philadelphia which was dropped by Art Fletcher, is making claims. No, not of the pennant. John is modest—or is he? He promises that the Phillies will not finish eighth in the National race next year.

There is no doubt of "Stuffy's" baseball knowledge, but can he show Owner Baker the wisdom of spending a dollar now and then for a real ball player, and the folly of selling that player when he becomes of some use to a big league club? With all due respect to McInnis, we think he is no better a manager than several who have preceded him at the helm of the National League entry in the city of brotherly love.

BILLIARDS might not be such a bad game to teach your son. Ralph Greenleaf, who this week successfully defended his title as world's champion, gets for his success the following: A diamond-studded medal worth $1,000; a salary of $250 a week from a billiard firm; a contract for 42 weeks in vaudeville at $1,000 a week and 50 per cent of the gate receipts for the match games in which he defended his title. Not so bad.

County Schools Abandon Cage Tournament

Winners in Two Sectional Meetings to Clash at Close of Season for 1926-27 Title

Deciding Contest of Year Will Be Played in Star Auditorium; New Rule Will Govern Matches of Both Boys and Girls; 11 Schools Entered

THERE will be no Marion County high school basketball tournament this season. This announcement was made today by Supt. C. P. Rayburn, following a meeting of the athletic committee of the county schools.

The county has been divided into two sections and the champion team of each section will meet on the Star Auditorium floor for the deciding championship contest. The new rule governs boys' and girls' teams alike.

The two county divisions will be known as the Eastern and Western sections. Schools in the eastern section are Martel, Caledonia, Kirkpatrick, Claridon and Waldo while the western section is composed of LaRue, Meeker, Agosta, Green Camp and Prospect.

Section Leagues

Each section will form a league and each team in the league will play six sectional games. The leader of the league in one section at the end of the season will meet the leader in the other division for the county championship.

All league games will be signed within the next few days by the athletic committee and each team will be allowed to participate in six other independent contests during the season.

The state athletic rules will be followed as usual in determining the eligibility of players and all games will be played on Friday nights, according to state athletic rules.

The winning team in each section will be awarded a cup as will the county champion. Cups will be given the boys teams as well as the girl's quintets.

Delaware Tournament

The county schedule must be completed before Feb. 25, the date of the Delaware tournament. The county champions and runners-up will be eligible to participate in that tournament as usual.

The new plan has been inaugurated to do away with the long drives of county teams during stormy weather and is certain to prove satisfactory. The plan also marks the beginning of a more conservative athletic progress in the county schools.

During the last few years, the two biggest days for the county schools have been the days of the county cage tournament. Last year, when the tourney was held in the Star Auditorium, the largest crowd to ever fill the hall was present.

The elimination of the tourney is the greatest change recorded in county athletics for many years and will probably be met with approval in each section.

The county athletic committee this year is composed of Thurl Stephens of Claridon; M. J. Ellis, of Agosta, and H. W. Rodock of Martel. This committee will announce the league scheduled within the next few days.

BACON TO REFEREE 15 OHIO CONFERENCE TILTS

Francis Bacon, personnel director of the Marion Steam Shovel and manager of the Steam Shovel independent basketball team, has been selected by H. A. Pastin of the Ohio Conference to referee 15 basketball games during the coming season.

Mr. Bacon has referred a large number of football games this season and will officiate at the Ohio University-Wittenberg clash at Springfield, Thanksgiving Day.

SHOVELS TO HOLD FIRST PRACTICE SESSION MONDAY

Floor in New Gym Installed; Workmen Placing Baskets

The Marion Steam Shovel cage team will hold its first practice session Monday night on the new Shovel gym floor, Manager Francis W. Bacon announced today.

The gym floor has been installed and baskets are being hung today, in preparation for the first practice.

The Steam Shovel outfit will open its initial season here, Tuesday night, Dec. 14, when it ties up with the Kenyon College quintet on the Shovel gym floor.

Among those who are expected to report for practice Monday night are "Paddy" Compton, Denny Bolyer, Bob Wilson, Cofman, Scoop Irwin, Pough, Worden, Cliff Ward and H. Gross-glauss.

Compton is former Wittenberg guard and coach of Harding High cagers. Bolyer was formerly forward on the Ohio Wesleyan quintet and all Ohio choice for three years. Wilson is from Denison University. Pough hails from Toledo. Manager Bacon was formerly guard of Wabash College. Other men are last year's stars.

The schedule for the coming season has not yet been completed but it is known that some of the best teams in the country will oppose the Steam Shovels on the local floor. The first out-of-town game is scheduled with Muskingum College, Dec. 17.

Negotiations are being made by Manager Bacon to book games for the Shovel team to be played at home and abroad with Buffalo All-Americans, Cleveland Rosenblums, Keyser Collegians, New York Celtics, Lancaster, Rochester Centrals, and others.

Championship Conference Races Will Be Brought to Close Saturday

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—It won't be long now, as the great football year hurries toward its climax, before the Big Conference race will be left to battle with other Middle West contenders, or both will have lost to the title.

Iowa, Iowa, Stanford is the coast championship [illegible] will have been established [illegible] of the three the Navy may encounter the greatest difficulty. [illegible] Dame next Saturday will be forced to contend with their [illegible] Leaving all that, seems to leave a clear field left in the old colonies but I can't see it working [illegible] Lafayette, Boston College, Holy Cross, of the undefeated [illegible] of the section, also draw [illegible] with Georgetown and Boston University, respectively.

The South, likewise, will remain [illegible] of less dramatic. Alabama having won the conference championship and will be host to Georgia Tech on Thanksgiving Day, decision over Georgia to become all-conference champion.

As for the Missouri Valley Conference, it will be something of a showdown day, but just what teams will be decided when the skies is many rumors to be sure. It looks to me as though Missouri will win from its arch-rival, Kansas, in spite of the fact that the latter [illegible] Oklahoma, which beat Missouri and by all accounts Kansas State to be the best [illegible] Nebraska will clash [illegible] Iowa State, which can't [illegible] the Cornhuskers [illegible] Missouri, weakened by the [illegible] two players who [illegible] Kansas trying to [illegible] straight.

Northwestern, it would appear [illegible] to win the Big [illegible] will play its part [illegible] with Iowa, which can't [illegible] the Illinois but to make it [illegible] Notre Dame. Nebraska [illegible] Northwestern now [illegible] will defeat Iowa and [illegible] Minnesota [illegible] Illinois.

I think Michigan is due to win [illegible] Big [illegible]

It would be possible for Ohio St. to "create a sensation" by winning from Illinois, providing Michigan and Northwestern beat Purdue and Chicago, respectively, but perhaps Chicago will redeem itself by winning from Wisconsin, for I am extremely [illegible] to doubt it.

Stanford can win the coast title by beating California, which it should readily do, regardless of its apparent lack of immunity to attack. If Stanford wins, it won't matter what U. S. C. does to Idaho or Oregon Aggies, do to Oregon which in both cases might be plenty.

In case anybody cares, I like Yale over Harvard in about the same way I like an obsessed tooth brush better than lockjaw. Notre Dame and Drake? Please don't be so [illegible]

LEGION POST'S CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING FAVORABLY

Membership Here Should Be Up to 350, According to Country-Wide Average

The campaign to increase the membership of Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 162, of the American Legion, which was formally launched in connection with the Armistice Day celebration last week, is making encouraging progress, officers of the organization state. A large number of membership renewals have been received and several World War veterans not previously affiliated with the Legion have been added to the enrollment.

These results have been achieved in spite of the fact that the campaign has not actually gained full momentum. Officers of the Post plan to make a more concerted drive later on.

Enrollment of Bird-McGinnis Post at this time totals about 170. To be up to the average maintained throughout the country, the membership here should be approximately 350, officers of the local organization say. This is the goal toward which those in charge of the campaign will aim. It should be possible to attain this mark, it is claimed, in view of the fact that there are about 900 World War veterans living in the city.

Launched Armistice Day

The campaign was formally launched at the Armistice Day celebration with a talk by John H. Clark, local attorney who was selected by Bird-McGinnis Post to give a talk on the subject, "Why Should a World War Veteran Belong to the American Legion." Mr. Clark pointed out what the country needs the services of an organization of this type and that very little can be accomplished for the welfare of

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

[illegible] Lee, over Pebble [illegible] Yeamiss was going to be the first one to try the bumps and I told her she could set on the front of my sled and I would set on the back and take her over the ramp without upsetting her. She did. And we went down the hill like the wind, and then instead of sliding up and going over the top the sled went in the hole low place and stuck its nose in the bump against a railroad tie and me and Yeamiss turned a lot of flips and I watched our legs and arms in the air and landed almost down to the pond, and Yeamiss was still holding one of the handrails in one of her hands, and the first thing she said was: "I'm not hurt a bit, Thomas Aristotle." I said, "Are you sure you aren't hurt?" And she said "Absolutely sure". So I said, "Then if you aren't hurt why don't you get off my face?"

When we got up the bunch was all around the bump examining it but the Lost Bag o Tripe, and he was streaking it over the top of the hill as fast as he could go, so I think I know who done it. We all went over to his house and knocked on his door and asked his mother if he could come out because we wanted to play with him, but she said he couldn't, and he made a snoot at us behind her back. I'll get him if it takes a million years, the dirty crook.

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

[illegible] think it will be all right for [illegible] leave you alone, my dear?" Uncle [illegible] wife asked him one morning [illegible] Little bunny rabbits had gone [illegible] "Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy [illegible] are going down town shopping [illegible] went on the rabbit lady, "and [illegible] are going to read a book. [illegible] means you are going to stay in [illegible] alone. But if you are afraid [illegible] left alone—"

"Should I be afraid of being [illegible]" asked Mr. Longears, with [illegible] twinkle of his pink nose. [illegible] yesterday, when you were [illegible] Bob Cat got in and nearly [illegible] away," squeaked Nurse Jane. [illegible] what happened to the Bob [illegible] Did the bunny with a laugh. [illegible] I play a brave trick on him? [illegible] I shut him up in the steamer [illegible] the Police Dog come? Of [illegible] I did. So run along my dear," [illegible] to his wife. "I'm not afraid to [illegible]"

Mr. Longears put on his tall, silk [illegible] trousers and black coat, [illegible] tripped down the front [illegible] long now.

[illegible] sudden, as Uncle Wiggily [illegible] the front gate he happened to [illegible]

"Goodness! I forgot to clean [illegible] I must go right back in my [illegible] and give them a good scrubbing [illegible] How could I be so [illegible] to start adventuring without [illegible] teeth? It was very care-[illegible]

"Who's" he called from the [illegible] and he talked rather thickly [illegible] his toothbrush in his mouth. [illegible] answered a loud voice.

"Is that you, Mr. Whitewash?" [illegible] Uncle, thinking it was his [illegible] friend who had given him [illegible] Oxide.

"No, it isn't Mr. Whitewash, and it [illegible] much either!" suddenly [illegible] and up the stairs came [illegible] Sculpey Alligator with the double-jointed tail. Into the bathroom he popped himself.

"What do you want?" asked the Bunny.

"I want to nibble you!" howled the Gator. "That's what I came in for—to nibble you!"

Then up spoke brave Uncle Wiggily asking:

"Have you cleaned your teeth to-day?"

"What has that to do with nibbling you?" asked the Alligator.

"Plenty," answered the bunny. "I never let any one nibble me who hasn't cleaned his teeth. So, as you didn't clean yours yourself, I'll clean them for you. Now it happened that Nurse Jane had left in the bathroom a big, hard scrubbing brush in a pail of soapy water. Catching up this scrubbing brush, Uncle Wiggily rubbed it on the slow soap and then, thrusting it into the 'Gator's mouth, he began to clean the bad chaps' teeth.

"Oh! Wow! Ouch! Oh, you hurt!" howled the Skippery Scalley chap.

"Then why don't you clean your own teeth?" asked the bunny. "Open your mouth wider so I can get at your back teeth!"

"No! No! I'd rather never nibble you than have you clean my teeth with a nasty scrubbing brush!" howled the bad chap, and away he ran clattering down the stairs faster than he had come up. Uncle Wiggily laughed, finishing cleaning his own teeth and then he went for a walk. And if the rocking horse will sing the bed road to-day, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's lumpy cushion.

FAMOUS SMILE OF ROUMANIAN QUEEN MISSING

Marie Speeding Towards New York To Sail for Home and King

Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train, Enroute to New York, Nov. 19.—The famous smile of Queen Marie of Roumania was missing today as she sped towards New York to sail for home and King Ferdinand, reported gravely ill.

The royal train is due in Jersey City tomorrow. Although regretting exceedingly the need of extending the social program in Cincinnati, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Washington, Richmond and Atlantic City, her majesty hurried north to await the sailing of the liner Berengaria on Nov. 24. She will stay at the home of Charles E. Mitchell, banker, at Tuxedo, N. Y., until her steamer sails.

It was a sudden illness which wrenched each telegram from anxious hearts since she made her last visit of any consequence to the royal household and soon aggravated.

Prince Plans Visits

Prince Nicholas will take a special train from North Bend, Ohio, point for Cincinnati. After a few hours' stay in the latter city, the prince will entrain for Detroit. Present plans call for him to stop at Cleveland on his way to rejoin her majesty in New York.

Queen Marie made what was probably her farewell social appearance at a ball in Louisville, although she was reluctant to attend on account of the burden of grief that is weighing her down. The queen gave in to pleas of committeemen. Guests at the reception paid twelve dollars a ticket to see the queen.

Visits Lincoln Cabin

The queen visited the log cabin in Hodgenville, Ky., in which Abraham Lincoln was born and the place where "My Old Kentucky Home" was written.

The activities of four Louisville policemen caused displeasure aboard the royal train. The quartet of guardsmen under command of Major George M. Chorpine established martial law along the highway and commandeered cars in the name of the city and Governor William J. Fields, of Kentucky. Three of the guests, including one woman on the royal train, were ordered out of their machines by the militiamen when the latter's automobile sprang a puncture.

Major Stanley Washburn aide to her majesty, wired Governor Fields today demanding an explanation of episode for the action of his subordinates.

PRINCE UNHERALDED IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Nov. 19.—Unheralded and escorted by a meager handful of railroad officials, Prince Nicholas of Roumania was brought into Cincinnati by motor this morning after leaving the royal train at North Bend, near here, and left at 9 a. m. for Detroit over the Baltimore & Ohio, it was learned by International News Service from railroad officials.

Some of the big dress establishments in New York employ motor mannequins who drive small cars in the fashionable thoroughfares, and exhibit the latest modes in motoring dress.

WORK OF REMODELING RUBBER PLANT STARTS

Preparing for New Concern Which Will Move Here from Cleveland

Work of remodeling and redecorating the interior of the Lincoln-av plant formerly occupied by the Studebaker-Wulff Rubber Co., is now under way in preparation for installation of equipment of the Gardner Tap & Die Co., which will move from Cleveland to Marion some time in December. The moving is expected to be complete in time for starting operations here about Jan. 1.

All of the storage rooms formerly used by the Studebaker-Wulff Co. are being removed in order to clear the floor space for construction work planned for the Gardner Co.'s operations. Another important improvement now under way is painting of the entire interior, which will be white throughout. The contract for this work was awarded to a local firm recently by J. M. Gardner, president of the company.

Mr. Gardner and his plant superintendent have returned to Cleveland after spending several days here making a survey of the local factory building and planning the location of machinery and other equipment.

LOCAL BALLOON PLANT WORKING DAY AND NIGHT

Fifty Per Cent of McQuate Rubber Co. Output Is Export Trade

With orders for its product booked for months ahead the McQuate Rubber Co., of Marion, is now working its plant 24 hours a day in an effort to fill the demand for toy balloons coming to it from all parts of the world.

Only little over a year old, the company has more than doubled its production since it started in business, and even this increase in volume of balloons made has not been equal to the demand for them. The number of employes has jumped from six, employed at the start, to the present force of 22. The company has 11 representatives on the road, selling, and the balloons made in Marion are being sought by jobbers all over the country.

Fully 50 per cent of the balloons made by the McQuate Rubber Co. are going to export trade, according to L. D. Miller, president of the concern. Balloons are now being shipped to England and Scotland, and orders and inquiries are on file from several places in South America, Porto Rico, and even from distant Russia.

Demand Grows

The demand for toy balloons throughout the world seems to have taken a sudden spurt, and balloon factories everywhere are swamped with orders, according to Miller. The Marion concern appears to have more than its share of the business, however, for from the inquiries now on file the plant could be doubled again in capacity and still be unable to meet the demand.

The McQuate Rubber Co. was started 11 months ago. Its product was at a force of six persons was 700 gross balloons a week. Today the force is 22 and is turning out between 1,800 and 2,000 gross of balloons a week. The process of production of several dozen balloons is not a quick

Two Types of Balloons

The local concern makes both round and long or "airship" type balloons. Four colors are used and the balloons are imprinted if desired. The company gets its milled rubber made to its own specifications, from an Akron plant, makes the milled rubber into a solution with naptha, and completes the process of making toy rubber balloons in its plant.

Maple wood forms are used to make toy balloons. These forms, carefully finished to insure smoothness, are first given a glycerine coating to prevent the rubber sticking to the wood. These forms are shaped to give the desired form to the balloon. The long type of balloon is made on a form with a small knob on top, just the size of a deflated balloon. The forms are fastened in rows on slats. These slats are arranged and dipped into the tank by a chain arrangement. After the first dipping they dry for a time, then are dipped again, and then a third time for ordinary balloons. For extra strength another dipping is given. The balloons pass through several minor processes before the curing is reached. The balloons are cured right on the forms by dipping them in a tank of curing solution.

Given Elasticity

Before curing, the balloons on the forms are practically raw rubber. After being dipped into the curing solution and drying on racks the elastic properties of the rubber is evident. The balloons are stripped from the forms, which leaves them in a flat form. They are rounded by blowing air in to the waists, which is done by placing it over a pipe connected to an air pipe. The testers pass on the balloons. Those with any flaw in color or pressure. Those with specks of colors are placed with the regular and the best grade balloons go to the packers who place them in cartons ready for shipment to the others.
